

Workshop Evaluation: PPT Pilots Workshop May 20th 2005.

The feedback we got from the workshop. This is a comprehensive list, but not in any particular order.

What was good about the workshop?	What was not so good or frustrating?
-	-Timeframes for T&T analysis didn't give justice to Tips
-Excellent Presentations and Preparation -Members of the panel from the industry -Useful handouts	-Relative low number of industry operators
-All companies, entities, organizations present are finding (and learning from) the projects to be 'painful' in some or other way. Not easy at all times to accomplish the final objective. -My organization is on the right track!!	-Time - not enough!
-Small and diverse mix of people -Content and presentations good and helped keep time -Koffi was a great facilitator	-Microphone Swapping -Could start earlier
-Well run re time management. Thanks Koffi. -Associating with people that are passionate about what they do, and want to achieve.	-
-Time keeping -Good presentations -Right length of workshop	-
-Facilitation -Inputs emphasizing importance of linkages with communities where businesses are run	-
-Well organized! -Discussions informative -Facilitator-excellent	-
-Opportunity to share many ideas and experiences	-
-Presentation with diversity and practical cases	-
-Perfect start time due to traffic issues -Break-away sessions -Case study of pilots that have succeeded	-For a 3 year project, I felt very few have succeeded. Didn't get a feeling that challenges were shared so that new players can avoid them when implementing PPT in their business.

-Idea was very good -Information well presented and articulated -Logistics well organised	-Other presentations done very fast
-Well structured presentation -Good case studies -Live examples about the good/failures – Wilderness Safaris	-Time constraints - resulted in presenters panel discussion being short and leaving out opportunities to explore some of the issues
-Reality based	-Poor representation of Sun City, Southern Sun, Ker and Downey -Not enough opportunity for discussion -Bad facilitators: disconnected, missed the point. Not enough time to really engage.
-!Everything! This workshops was so good because I came back from -Limpopo working on possibilities on agro-tourism.	-
-Timing excellent -Diverse audience attending -Inspiring to listen to all involved	-
-Networking -Listening to the PPT Team, including the Private Sector presenting	- Frustrating that there was no form of government response on the issues; e.g. from DEAT
-Interaction on the subject at different levels of involvement Networking	-Long initial introduction -We all have little time but it was too short to get to some further in-depth discussion on issues
-Venue and time allocated for the workshop. -The division of groups was great because it helps us to participate. -Getting to know people in the industry.	-To see how important it is to identify the government not playing its role in assisting small businesses.
-Every speaker who was doing a presentation was so good, and they managed stick to the time allocated and were in a position to answer every question addressed	-Shortage of workshop documents, and the setting of the hall. I personally don't have the document.
-Pilot project experiences -Getting the views of business, from their world -Problems with donor funding -Linkage in small towns	-Direct link to land reform -Linkages in rural areas where literacy is a problem
-Acquired expected information -Presented case studies showed clear	-Not enough time to discuss issues -Not involving other governmental

examples of what is practically happening out there	departments
-Brought together a variety of stakeholders: private sector, tour operators, government. But NGOs and organizations representing communities were missing.	-Need another venue to discuss in details what works and what doesn't – A web site? -People speaking on BEE and Deals were all white! What does it mean in terms of who is driving the BEE Scorecard process?
